Conference Speakers...

Professor Andy Hargreaves

Professor Andy Hargreaves is one of the most inspirational and up-to-date leadership speakers of our time. Currently living in the US and serving as Adviser in Education to the Premier of Ontario, he has taken time out of his busy schedule to join us for the morning.

Andy's session is entitled "Deep Collaboration: working well together" and during the morning he will draw on 25 years of his own and other's research, to address what collaboration means today, how to go about it, and how to go deeper with it in ways that undermine neither the autonomy of the teacher nor the authority of school and system leaders.

Russell Hobby

Russell has been general secretary of NAHT since 2010. Experience spanning education, private industry and government has made Russell a passionate advocate of the quality of leadership in our schools and he has had frequent opportunity to spread the word on the lessons that business could learn from education.

We are delighted to welcome Russell to present his session "Matters of the Moment" on this, one of the last occasions colleagues will hear from him prior to him standing down from his role as general secretary in September.

Shonette Bason-Wood

Shonette Bason-Wood is different, from her look to her energy to her content. She spent most of her teaching career giving permission to children to learn in innovative ways. She has made the transition from the classroom to Leadership to bring "Permission to..." model to all staff.

Shonette will be closing our conference with her session "Permission to be a Happy Leader". You may think you have heard it all before, and you probably have, but through her dynamic and unique style Shonette will challenge you to reflect on current modes of thinking and energise you to impact change through her "Permission to..." model.
