Early Career Teachers - Enrichment CPD Programme

Essential Safeguarding Training for ECTs

Led by Philippa Ollerhead

+ Overview...

This course is for recently appointed NQTs and Early Career Teachers. The aim of the course is to offer colleagues the opportunity to revisit and build upon the safeguarding training received during their training year. Through discussion and the use of case studies, colleagues will deepen their knowledge, skills and understanding in relation to child protection, ensuring they are well equipped to keep children safe.

On completion of the course colleagues will:

- Understand that they have a duty to protect and safeguard children in their school communities
- Understand the definitions of abuse and key terminology
- Recognise the signs and symptoms of abuse
- Know how to respond to concerns or disclosures including making a referral
- Have an awareness of the recent changes in Child Protection legislation and KCSIE 2021

+ Speaker Profile...

Philippa Ollerhead is a highly experienced consultant, trainer & adviser, she has over 30 years experience in education, with 16 years at senior leadership level within schools and most recently as Education Services Director for Judicium Education.

Philippa is a national leader in safeguarding, working as an associate for the National Association of Headteachers offering advice and guidance to Headteachers on complex safeguarding issues. She also visits schools all around the country carrying out safeguarding audits. As a training partner for the National Association of Headteachers she delivers advanced Designated Safeguarding Lead training nationally, as well as training in other key topics such as preparing for Ofsted and maximising financial efficiencies.

Philippa also deliver NPQ modules and conducts assessments for several universities both in the UK and overseas and works closely with the Department for Education supporting academies and MATs who are experiencing financial or structural issues.

Learning & Teaching Conference 1 (Autumn 2021)

Consistently Great Teaching & Learning

Led by Isabella Wallace

+ Overview...

A comprehensive guide to ensuring that every pupil in every lesson is supported and challenged to their full potential. Jam-packed with low-prep/no-prep practical strategies that are ready to use immediately and under-pinned by the latest research, this training will help class teachers to feel confident about their classroom practice every day.

During the day, Isabella will look at how to:

- Ensure every learner makes progress
- Attend easily to a wide range of attainment levels
- Get active participation from all learners
- Engage reluctant learners
- Adapt to the needs of learners during a lesson
- Encourage learners to be self-reliant and proactive
- Establish starting points from which progress can be measured
- Use feedback to meet individual needs and move learners forward
- Eradicate lost learning time
- Use questioning effectively
- Get learners working harder than the teacher
- Make progress highly visible

+ Speaker Profile...

Isabella Wallace is co-author of the best-selling teaching guides, "Pimp Your Lesson!", "Talk-Less Teaching", and the new "Best of the Best" Classroom Guides for Teachers. An experienced and award-winning educator, she is consultant and contributor for the Oxford Dictionary of Education and presents nationally and internationally on outstanding teaching and learning.

Learning & Teaching Conference 2 (Spring 2022)

Eat, Sleep, Teach... Pause - re-thinking how we do the everyday, every day
Led by Mark Creasy

+ Overview...

The day is designed to get everyone considering their own practice and to consider changes, big and small, immediate and delayed, classroom-focused and whole school, that can be made to achieve at least the same results, if not better, with less effort, stress and risk of burnout. Using real-life examples, all drawn from personal experience, as well as hands-on practical activities to allow colleagues to experience the process the day will have three key foci:

Session 1 - Games for learning and starting the learning off

In this session we will explore how you create an environment where the children not only want to come in, but, actually, break into a sprint from the gate to get to class! We will consider the messages we give, deliberately and unintentionally and how we can shape the day from its opening minutes - if not the night before. Also, given the focus on children 'knowing and remembering more' how can games plant these seeds and make your life so much easier?

Session 2 - Making every minute count, not counting every minute

This session will ask a simple, but fundamental question What's going on inside your classroom? Building on session one, we will consider how you not only maintain control, but give it away to get more back. I will challenge everyone to consider how they work and to free anyone who feels they are a slave to the curriculum - recognising that time is our most valuable commodity and that we can't afford to waste it.

Session 3 - Taking control of what's out of your control: playtime and lunchtime, home learning, working with parents

Of course, all of this is in your control, if you make it - I will look to empower colleagues to take ownership, as well as responsibility for all of these aspects and yet, instead of being cowed by them, taking the freedom this controls will allow, even with those parents!

+ Speaker Profile...

Mark Creasy is an Independent Thinking Associate and experienced primary school teacher and is the author of 'Unhomework', which challenges the orthodoxies about work outside the classroom. His contemporary and down-to-earth style of teaching has allowed him to view learning as a tool, not a rule, to ensure that his pupils are given the right to an education that suits their needs and maximises their potential for future success. Mark's simple philosophy is, 'If this isn't good enough for my daughter, it's not good enough for anyone else' – which is at the heart of how he engages his learners on a daily basis.
